

IEEE Sensors Letters Associate Editor Nominations and Appointments

Appointments to the Editorial Board of IEEE Sensors Letters are made by the Editor-in-Chief, in consultation with the Senior Editorial Team. Candidates are considered for appointment upon nomination by one or more of the Senior Editors. Self-nominations by candidates would normally be will be similarly considered by the Senior Editorial Team. Nominations will be in the form of the candidate’s short CV, emphasizing their research proficiency and editorial experience, together with the current editorial expertise grid filled in by the candidate.

Below is a table, presented as a check-list, with the main essential and desirable skills for contributing as an Associate Editor of the IEEE Sensors Letters.

Criteria	Fully met	Part. met	Not met
Essential experience and skills
1. To have published a considerable number of sensors-related papers in the field of Sensors including in IEEE Sensors Journal and in other publications
2. To have their main research activity in at least one of the Sensor Letters Topical Areas .
3. To have been a reviewer for the IEEE Sensors Letters, IEEE Sensors Journal, or other journals in the field of sensors and completed reviews in a timely manner
4. To be committed to manage competently the peer review of about 5 manuscripts per month, in a time schedule compatible with the accepted norms for the manuscript flow (IEEE Sensors Letters is committed to finalize the first review cycle within 2.5 weeks).
5. Strongly commitment to the success of IEEE Sensors Letters
Desired experience and skills
6. Commit to attending the IEEE Sensors Letters Board Meeting to be held concurrently with IEEE Sensors Conference each year
7. To have previous editorial experience
8. Ability to cover/handle several research categories as defined by the Editors Information Classification Scheme (EDICS) in IEEE Sensors Letters and the editorial Expertise Grid
9. To have supervised PhD and Masters students, or a research team, on sensors topics
10. Motivation to improve the productivity and quality of IEEE Sensors Letters
11. Ability to contribute to the management of special issues, as well as to special editorial projects

For self-nominations, please read the Associate Editor Manual and send to the Senior Editor closest to your field of expertise:

- Your short CV with your publication list showing your expertise in sensors.
- Your filled in expertise grid, available from the Journal website.
- Your up to two pages cover letter, addressing how your relevant experience meets the criteria above, as well as the essentials of your motivation and interest in contributing to the Journal.